LAST night arrived the Katherine Stewart Forbes, C. J. Chapman Commander from London, left Portsmouth the 4th June; and having received our files to the 1st of that month, we hasten to lay before our readers a PRECIS of the most interesting matter.

Mr. Canning has at length completed his Cabinet.—The Marquis of Lansdowne takes a seat in it without office.

In the House of Lords on the 25th May Lord Goderich moved the second reading of the Corn Bill, to which there was considerable opposition, and the House divided, when 120 appeared to be in favor of the motion, and 63 against it, Majority 57!—The Times and Bell's Weekly Messenger consider this as a decisive victory by the new administration, whilst the new Ministerial paper the Morning Chronicle, and other Journals, think that the division cannot throw much light on the strength of the opposition in that House—"Who shall decide when Doctors disagree?"—The opposition was expected to have been most vehement and formidable.

This is the only question in either House of an important nature that has been put to the vote.—Lord Londenderry in the Upper and Sir Thomas Lethbridge in the Lower House continue to amuse the public with their buffoonery—Mr. Brougham has offered up prayers that it may please Providence "to endue all the Nobility with grace, "wisdom and understanding;" which produced continued bursts of cheers and laughter.—The new opposition in the Commons does not appear to have advanced one step.

There is a report that the English Army in Portugal will soon be augmented to 20,000 men, as our present force is by no means safe in that country.

France seems quiet—Intelligence from Lisbon of the 24th May states that the Princess Regent is recovering.—The claims of Don Miguel to the Portuguese Throne when he comes of age, in a few months more, and the right of Don Pedro to interfere in the affairs of Portugal, are warmly contested, and the partisans of the former appear to gain strength.—The Portuguese frontier is still very unsettled, and the rebels still receive encouragement in Spain.—In the army of Spain on the frontier there, however, exists the utmost discontent, and it is said that deserters are assembling in the heart of Spain ready to unfurl a constitutional banner.

Lord Wm. Bentick is about to be dispatched to Portugal in the joint character of Commander in Chief and Ambassador.

It is said at Vienna, that Don Miguel will go to Lisbon, as soon as his brother, the Emperor, arrives in Europe.

Differences exist between the United States and the Brazilian Empire, and the Ambassador at Rio Janeiro had demanded and received his passports.

The Buenos Ayreans have gained a grand victory over the Enperor Don Pedro's Brazilian Army.—The American Ambassador is said to have been grossly insulted, and the quarrel is likely to be serious; Don Pedro will now have a far more formidable adversary on his hands then Buenos Ayres.

PERNAMBUCO, APRIL 7.—Rio Grand do Sul is in the hands of the Spanish Independents, who have gained a victory which is said to be complete. The loss of the Brazilians is 1,200 killed, and 2,500 taken prisoners.

The disturbances in Canada according to Montreal papers of the 2nd May are nearly hushed.

The Marquis of Hereford is about to proceed in the Briton Frigate, Captain H. Seymour, on a special mission to Russia.

A Bill has been brought into the House of Lords to annul the Marriage of Miss Turner to E. G. Wakefield, and was read a second time on the 30th May:—A discussion upon the principle of the Bill will hereafter take place.

The arrival of Lord Cochrane in Greece has drawn all the patriots together. Universal harmony subsists among them; renewed vigour is to be observed in their councils & their actions; and several successes over the Turks are reported.—The negotiation with the Porte in favor of Greece is still unsuccessful.
